Third Annual Labor Day Festival Previewed On Milt Grant TV Show

By Russell Greenbaum

Greenbelt's third annual four-day Labor Day Festival was previewed with a flourish when all candidates for the crown of Queen of the Festival were presented on television today. The seven girls in the annual popularity contest, each sponsored by a Greenbelt organization, appeared on the Milt Grant Record Hop show over Channel 5 (WTTG) between four and 5:30 p.m.

All contestants must be unmarried and between the ages of 16 and 25. Kathleen Jane Madden of 110 Northway, sponsored by the Fire Department & Rescue Squad, is leading in the contest with 31,200 votes. Second is Ellen Marie Maguire of 10-P Southway, the representative of the American Legion and Auxiliary, with 6,600 votes. Close behind in third place is Martha Louise Haggerty of 34-E Crescent Road, the candidate of the Lions Club, with 5,000 votes.

Other candidates, each with 2,000 votes, are Judy Ann Moore of 2-D Westway, sponsored by the Izaak Walton League, and Alice Bell of Branchville, representing the Greenbelt Theater. The Little League is also entering a contestant but has not yet submitted a qualified entry. Votes are cast in the form of pennies which can be dropped into containers located in the Co-op store. All votes cast on or before July 31 counted double, which is the reason for the early lead built up by some of the candidates.

A new feature of the Festival this year is a nine-mile road marathon to be conducted under AAU rules. This event, sponsored by the city recreation department and under the supervision of Recreation Director Warren Leddick, has attracted wide attention. An exhibition judo contest will also be added this year, and the band contest has been expanded to include drum and bugle corps.

The Labor Day Festival this year is under the direction of the Youth Advisory Board with the proceeds, as before, going toward the fund for the new youth center building. A total of $1,849 has been collected for this fund as a result of the two previous Festivals. Eli Don Bullian is managing the Festival for the third successive year.

Greenbelters Serve On Regional Body

Headed by Harry A. Boswell, Jr., Maryland attorney, realtor, and builder, the Prince Georges County Regional Committee of the Health and Welfare Council of the National Capital Area, a new agency recently organized to coordinate and improve health and welfare planning and budgeting for the entire metropolitan area, includes several Greenbelters in its membership.

Members were chosen on the basis of previous successful welfare activities in Prince Georges County, many from present membership on committees of the Community Chest and Planning Council, which, because of its agreement to participate in the Health and Welfare Council, will suspend all activities for two years.

Residents of Greenbelt nominated from the Family and Child Welfare Committee were Mrs. Herbert Hertz, Mrs. Jane Hunt, and Mrs. Mary Jane Kinzer. Mrs. Ellen E. Linson was nominated from the Department of Recreation. Representing the Social Service League is Mrs. Elizabeth Goldfaden. Named to serve on the HWC Budget Committee was Charles McDonald.

1097 Voters Register; 10 Candidates Running

Greenbelt citizens set a record registration enrollment for the upcoming city council election. City clerk Winfield McCamy disclosed this week that 1097 residents are eligible to vote September 17.

Several sources attribute the huge turnout to several factors: the publicity in the News Review through ads, editorials and news reports, and to candidates getting off to a running start in the campaign by urging friends and residents to register.

McCamy also announced that incumbent Alan Kistler has registered, along with Mrs. Jane Hunt and another added starter, "Jake" Hoffman. In addition to the above are incumbents Tom Canning, Ben Goldfaden, James Smith, and new candidates Joseph Cherry, Henley Goode, Stanley Edwards, and William Seigel. Short biographies of the candidates will appear in a future issue of the News Review.

Long Sells Restaurant

Al Long, well-known local civic leader and restaurateur, is no longer in the restaurant business. About a year ago Long became a partner in a Top's Drive-In restaurant on Queen's Chapel Road. Recently the Hot Shoppes offered to buy him out at a profit that made retirement from the business enticing. Long accepted and will now spend his nights at home counting his money.

SWIMMING MEET

The Greenbelt Swim Team will be needing your support tonight at 8:30 p.m. The team is entertaining the Rosemary Hills Swim Club from Silver Spring. It is our first meet and we hope to have support from the people of Greenbelt.

GIRLS SOFTBALL

The final game played on Thursday in Riverdale with the Greenbelt girls softball team have ended their season as Prince Georges County Champions. The team won all ten games that were played this season.

FAMILY PICNIC

Members of the Prince George's Ladies Auxiliaries to the Prince Georges' Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squads are sponsoring their first FAMILY PICNIC, to be held Sunday, August 25 at the Riverdale Shelter Area on Edmonston Road. Action begins at 2 p.m. and there will be games and fun for everyone. Two very special features are on tap for those interested: a soft-ball game between a team made up of the men against the leading girl's softball team of the area; and a snapshot contest. Camera fans are invited to bring along their equipment and snap away to their hearts' content. Pictures will be turned over to a committee of judges and prizes will be awarded at the County convention in September. Pictures must be taken at the picnic to be eligible for consideration. Soft drinks and hot dogs will be for sale.

CANDIDATES SPEAK

Thursday, September 12, at 8:15 p.m. the Greenbelt Lions Club will again sponsor an opportunity for the candidates for City Council to express their views and give their platforms before an open forum in the Center School Auditorium. Each candidate will be given four minutes to speak and after the speeches there will be the usual opportunity to ask questions from the floor.

37 Book Anglers Win Award Certificates

Thirty-seven Greenbelt youngsters, members of the library's book angler's club, have been awarded certificates for completing the requirements of the club's summer reading program. All read at least five worthwhile books between June 19 and August 15 and submitted reports that showed that they had thought about what they had read. Thirteen of the members received special gold seal certificates for carrying out their reading in a superior manner.

The purpose of the reading program, which was supervised by Marjorie Muir, head librarian, was to encourage the children not only to read good books but to gain something from each book and express their ideas about it in a concise report. The books had to cover varied subjects. The 67 participants who joined the book angler's club even included first graders, four of whom won certificates with one winning a gold seal certificate.

A number of the youngsters read and reported on more than five books. Some covered as many as nine, and one young lady devoured 11 books. Each book read required a brief report on why the book was liked or disliked. Those who selected better books and presented a more thoughtful analysis of the books obtained the gold seals. These were won by the following in alphabetical order:

Irwin Abramowitz, Sophie Abramowitz, Sheila Berman, Duane Burchick, Rachelle Chasnoff, Susan Ellerin, Rebecca Fisher, Russell Gutierrez, Lynne Gilbert, Louise Lazaroff, Bob Miller, Jeffrey Suslansky (1st grade), and Ellen Vernoff.

Others who won certificates for completing the reading requirements were Margaret Amberg, Rosemarie Aulisio, Jane Beale, Connie Burt, Carolyn Campbell, Mary Canning, Dinny Cherin, Mary Pitman, Anne Fennell, Pat Glenn, Alice Goldberg, Geraldine Griffin, Martha Haker, Alan Henry, David Klein (1st grade), Tommy Lingle (1st grade), Brian McDonnell, Karen McKenzie, Jimmy Rackleff, Ricky Ransom, Jeffrey Rosen, Freddie Rubin (1st grade), Carole Schwimer, and Barbara Skolnik.

GHI Financial Reports Compared For First Six Months Of 1956-1957

By Al Skolnik

Primarily as the result of the planned exterior trim painting program initiated in the spring months, the financial situation of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. for the first six months of 1957 continues to compare unfavorably with that of previous years, according to a fiscal statement released by comptroller Roy Breashears last week.

My Town

By Russ Greenbaum

Discourse upon Returning from a Vacation at the Seashore:

The average man considers a week's summer vacation as a time for relaxation. (The average man is the guy with 1.8 children, a hole in every other pair of socks and a wife who reads the Reader's Digest from cover to cover). There are several places he might go to accomplish this—the mountains, camping out in the woods, a nudist colony (no packing problems), or even his own backyard. There is only one place to avoid—the seashore. If you are a parent who believes that no sacrifice is too great for the children, then take 'em there, but impress upon your wife what a noble husband and father you are for agreeing to a week of "Blood and Sand."

The very first morning of your "vacation," you get up an hour earlier than usual. This is not because it's a long drive to the beach. Your children have been up since four a.m., have put on their bathing suits, and are ready to leave. From the time you open an eye (for which sign they've been watching like buzzards) you hear every five minutes, "Daddy, when are we going to leave" in between fights over which pail and shovel belongs to who. You are permitted to choke down a cup of coffee and off you go.

Perhaps you console yourself with the thought that at least the drive will be pleasant with no traffic that early in the morning. (Wait until you get to the Bay Bridge.) You turn on the car radio, settle down to the hum of the road—and then your kids cut loose. Let's listen in.

"Mommy! He hurt me!"
"Aw, I hardly even touched her, the cry baby!"

"Sonny, birthday or no birthday, you put that switchblade away! Sam, don't just sit there driving—do something!"

"Me do something! If you'd just drag your nose out of that Reader's Digest, you could keep those kids in line!"

And so it goes—the typical happy, American family on vacation. As soon as your kids get that first whiff of salt air, they're ready to leap into the ocean—and you're ready to push them in. First of all, however, it takes a half-hour to find the place you've rented sight unseen. The reason it takes so long is that you absolutely refuse to believe that that cracker-box in the middle of the block is the place you're paying $85 a week for.

Down on the beach you're sure you can relax while your youngsters go bounding off into the surf. Now can you close your eyes in peace? not a chance. These college girls in brief bathing suits insist on parading past you. They should show more consideration.

If you're made of sturdy stuff, you might begin to enjoy yourself despite all these obstacles. Slowly, however, a new insidious torture comes into your life—sand. The crunch of sand on the floor, the crunch of sand in your food, sand in your bed, sand in your hair—sand, sand, everywhere, marching up and down again! (Get a hold of yourself, man.) You turn on the radio to get it off your mind, and what do you hear—some guy howling about "Love Letters in the Sand."

How was my vacation at the seashore? Wonderfully relaxing!

SWIMMING POOL HOURS

The Swimming Pool hours on Saturday and Sunday for the remainder of the season will be 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

"All other expense items, except insurance, showed a reduction or no major change in the second quarter of 1957 as compared with the same period in 1956," Breashears stated. "Especially noteworthy were reductions in water expenses and in non-operating expenses. These reductions, however, were not enough to offset the $14,800 increase in the cost of repairs and maintenance, much of which was chargeable to the special painting program."

Income in the second quarter of 1957 was practically the same as last year, except that there was no profit realized from the sale of undeveloped land, comparable to the $8,000 realized from the release and sale of the Woodland Hills tract in April 1956.

Combining the experience of the first and second quarters, the fiscal report showed receipts of $574,700 and expenses of $572,400 for a net gain of $2,300 after the first six months of operation in 1957. This compared with the net gain of $29,000 reported for a similar period in 1956.

During the six months ending June 30, 1957, heating costs rose by $6,500 over 1956. Practically all this increase took place in the first quarter. "Actually," Breashears said, "the consumption of fuel oil was less for the first two quarters of this year, due to warmer weather and improvements in the heating plant, but this saving was more than nullified by the hike in fuel oil prices."

Maintenance costs and contract work increased by $25,000 of which, as already mentioned, $14,800 occurred in the second quarter. Slight increases in board and management expenses ($1,200) and insurance expenses ($700) were also reported.

Despite the drop in non-operating (sales and service office) expenses in the second quarter, the overall six months experience for this item showed a $2,600 increase over a similar period in 1956. However, non-operating income also increased in his period—by $1,800.

On the favorable side, water expenses were down some $8,000 to $10,000 for the first half of 1957 over 1956. This drop is attributed to the repair of a major break in the water lines. Under present arrangements, GHI is charged for such breaks.

Nominal drops were reported for city and county taxes ($2,000) and interest expenses ($4,000). The first six months of 1957 also saw no expenditures by the corporation for hurricane and storm damages, for which $2,800 was reported in the first half of 1956.

Crab Feast

A crab feast will be the featured event at the Greenbelt American Legion Post 136 on Saturday, August 24. Crabs, beer, hot dogs, and soft drinks will be served from 2 to 7 p.m. There will be dancing from 7 to 12 p.m. Admission is $2.50 per person. Children under twelve, when accompanied by an adult, will be admitted free.

"Miss Greenbelt American Legion" this year is Ellen Maguire. She will compete for the title of "Miss Greenbelt" in the Labor Day Festival contest, proceeds from which will go to the Youth Center Fund.

TOUCH FOOTBALL LEAGUE

All managers interested in entering a team in a Greenbelt Touch Football League are asked to contact the Recreation Department. The Football League will resemble the softball league in being for residents only. All organizations and churches are urged to enter teams.

No. 3

To The Editor

KISTLER KUDOS

I am writing to express my enthusiastic endorsement of your recent editorial calling upon the citizens of Greenbelt to take part in the coming city elections, not just as voters but as candidates for council posts.

Your point that many new people have come to the city since the last council election and that there should be some expression of their viewpoint on the council is an excellent one. I believe my election two years ago was due, in no small measure, to the fact that I was a new resident, promising a "new look" at city problems.

New members on the council can bring a fresh insight with which to view problems—this is of value, for obvious reasons. For this reason I welcome the suggestion that many people should enter the race, even though this should mean the possible unseating of some of the incumbents, including myself.

While retention of a man like Mayor Tom Canning, so that the city may have the benefit of his ten years of council experience, would be an act of wisdom on the part of the citizens, replacement of a "freshman" councilman like myself would be somewhat less than a major catastrophe.

So, congratulations on a splendid civic suggestion—let's have lots of contenders in the council election. The more, the better, for local democracy!

Alan Kistler

P.S. As a personal suggestion, I think an editorial note of thanks to Councilman Bob Hurst, who is not running for re-election, for his work as a member of council would be very much in order. In the two years I've served with him I've been impressed by the quality of his service, and the breadth of his knowledge of public affairs, and the value of his contribution to this city's problems.

PET PROBLEM

The age-old problem on dogs in particular, and the concerted efforts by the GHI administration have recently been given publicity even beyond the domain of Greenbelt. Results of a referendum indicated that the larger portion of the membership returns precipitated the action. Naturally, it is statistically expected that when a larger segment of the membership shows no interest in pets, it is reflected in the interpretation of the collected information. May I remind the GHI Board that other progressive towns which also contain a comparatively larger portion of their citizens who are not pet owners, have accepted the pet problem, providing the public nuisance problem is not present. Furthermore, there is no city ordinance or state statute which prohibits dogs in a community. With the dog population approximating 25 million in the United States, undoubtedly due to the increasing interest of dog fanciers, the attempted action of the GHI administration is counter-current to the general acceptance of this problem in the country.

It is therefore quite evident that the "get tough" policy of manager Walker may result in embarrassment to the general membership.

Those dog owners desiring to learn further of their legal status on this matter can contact me at the phone number given below.

DEPLORABLE

To The Editor:

Personally I deplore the organization of the Greenbelt Pet Owners Association. I think Greenbelt residents are being taken in by a scheme giving profit and publicity to their counsel and, to his associate, another opportunity to harass Greenbelt Homes, Inc.

The Association gives the pet owner no advantage or privilege he doesn't already possess under his contract. The counsel for the Association may speak only in court—as a non-member he is not entitled to voice or vote in board meetings or membership meetings of the Corporation. In court I trust he will do as well for the Corporation as he did the last time he represented petitioners against it.

I think it should be noted that the Corporation has consistently, throughout its history, carried on a program of warning letters and visits to pet owners—many of whom were persuaded to get rid of the dogs and cats which their neighbors had complained about and voted against.

Because of those who persisted in their disregard of the contract, rules, neighbors, and majority opinion (consistently expressed) the directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. have been forced to the drastic step of contract cancellation.

Another factor has been the consistent failure of the police to enforce the city ordinance against stray dogs or dogs running free and without a leash. In this, however, they apparently have the blessing of the city council and city manager who excuse the inaction on the ground that the officers are neither trained nor equipped. I know of no move on the part of council to overcome these deficiencies or, on the part of the police, to overcome their (shall we say?) reluctance.

The Long View

By Al Long

It was just before dinner when I heard a slight commotion at the door and opened it. A great Dane of a dog burst right in, slobbered my face with affectionate licks and ripped my new Harry Truman sport shirt with his friendly paws.

"Oh, hello," said Mr. A, a neighbor who seemed to be attached in some way to the other end of the leash. "May we come in?" he added as he was virtually pulled through the doorway by my new found friend, Fido.

As he flew past, I noticed that he was accompanied by Mrs. B, another neighbor who snuggled a fierce-looking Persian cat in her arms.

"We hoped we'd find you home," she explained as she set the cat down on the floor and Mr. A unleashed his canine comrade to roam the rooms of what up to now had been my castle.

"We are joining up members in the Greenbelt Pet Owners Association!" they both exclaimed in unison. "We know you're a Democrat and would want to join," added Mrs. B in what at the time seemed a perfectly logical explanation.

"Well now," I parried as a practicing politician, "I'd like to, I'm sure. But technically I don't think I can." And then as their faces saddened perceptibly, "I haven't got a pet, you know," I apologized abjectly.

"Not any kind," begged Mrs. B looking hopelessly at a dry, empty goldfish bowl on the bookcase.

Just then the parakeet chirped loudly from the next room in what I thought was his usual cheery notes but which I later decided was his last scream of SOS!

"Oh, that's just fine!" beamed Mr. A. "If you have a parakeet you're eligible. I'll fill out the form. It only costs a dollar you know."

"Well now," I temporized, not knowing which camp it might be best to join, the pet owners or the non-pet owners or pet non-owners or - - - whatever they will call themselves.

"Don't you worry," Mrs. B answered me, assessing my hesitation correctly, "we're going to win and be a dominant influence in the town. Why, we've got the GVHC Board frightened to death. One of their wives has even stopped calling her husband by her usual endearing term."

"Why so?" I bit.

"She used to call him 'pet'," she answered with a deep chuckle. "Just sign here," said Mr. A, handing me the application form. And then it happened. Out of the dining room, through the living room and out the door flew my parakeet, Mrs. B's cat and Mr. A's dog.

I was no longer eligible because my bird wasn't really flying—she was in the cat's mouth and I was no longer a pet owner. I understand that Mrs. B almost lost her standing too. Almost but not quite they caught the dog just in time, and a Persian cat can always grow some more fur. There may be some truth to the rumors that the Association is deeply divided into two cliques, at least Mr. A and Mrs. B no longer solicit membership as a team, so I'm told.

Bill Willis Pitches In All Star Game

Bill Willis, pitcher for the Greenbelt Midget Team, was the lone local representative in the Mason-Dixon All Star Tournament held in York, Pennsylvania, August 9-11. Willis was selected from the thousands of teams in the Middle Atlantic area and was one of 15 from Prince Georges county. Of the six All-Star midget pitchers, Willis had the highest pitching average.

WIDER-RANGE TELEPHONE SERVICE

To meet the needs of modern living, we propose to expand wider-range telephone service to more telephone users in Maryland.

For some time we have been expanding calling areas to eliminate toll charges. For example, in the past 5 years we have eliminated toll charges between communities in 51 instances.

But that isn't enough. Customers tell us they want the privilege of even wider-range calling, without extra charges or tolls.

Accordingly, we are proposing a plan which will extend calling privileges to a wider range of communities and eliminate toll charges on 102 additional routes. Under the new plan every Maryland telephone customer will now be able to call one or more nearby communities without extra charge. How this affects you is explained in detail in our recent letter.

Other adjustments, both upward and downward, will be made in some long distance rates to Maryland points only—a slight increase in the charge for additional alphabetical directory listings and an increase in the charge for installing or moving telephones. For further information please call your Business Office.
